Launch of Live (Remote) Exam Invigilation from Digital Skills Authority

The Digital Skills Authority, which is expanding its portfolio of certification programs in digital skills, digital business, e-commerce and marketing, has responded to the Coronavirus impact on individuals skilling or up-skilling for jobs, by launching a Live (Remote) Exam Invigilation option to its e-learners. Students with suitable technology (a reliable speedy internet connection, up-to-date laptop, pc or tablet with webcam), and a smartphone can take sit their exams from the comfort and safety of their home.

“Live (Remote) Exam invigilation is not intended to replace exams students normally take at Testing Centres such as the British Council, Institutes or Universities around the globe, when lockdown is over”, says Deborah Collier President, Chief Information & Marketing Officer at the Digital Skills Authority. “However, they are a helpful solution during lockdown, and can continue as an option post lockdown, for those who are unable to attend testing centres”.

The Digital Skills Authority aims to help social and economic mobility, generate employment by supporting the Digital Economy, and ensure future-proof skilling, both through its current suite of certifications and future planned programs.
